New Castle has been selected as a site for a Boys' Resident Works Center, it was announced today by Walter S. Cowing, State Youth Administrator through District Louis C. Scott, of Pittsburgh. Engineering of the site, located in Cunningham Park is under way and actual construction of the buildings necessary will start after the holiday season.

The Boys' Resident Center should not be confused with a recent announcement of a shop building for New Castle operated by the NYA. The shop building is for local youths, the Boys' Resident Center will provide experience for approximately 175 youths between 18 and 25 from western Pennsylvania.

Many buildings will be required. Among them will be six barracks, one administration building, one recreation building, one lavatory building, one mess hall and kitchen, a garage building, one infirmary, one staff dormitory, one oil house, one staff cottage and various shops. The Resident Center was made possible for New Castle through the joint co-operation of the local office of the National Youth Administration, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the city council. Council donated 31 acres of land in Cunningham park for the center and the Junior Chamber of Commerce has worked with the NYA officials for weeks leading to the actual consummation of the project.

Several of these boys' centers are being established in Pennsylvania, the nearest one to New Castle being Allegheny county. Boys accepted for the center will work a 40-hour week. Twenty hours of this will be actual job experience in the shops, and the other 20 must be worked BERLIN, Dec. 21.—A grave warning to the United States that Germany might consider the requisitioning of German and Italian ships and their sale to Britain as a "warlike" act by the United States was issued by an official Wilhelmstrasse spokesman today.

Simultaneously it was announced that the German government has informed the state department in Washington that members of the staff of the United States embassy in Paris aided and sheltered an agent of the British secret service. The official German announcement said the Reich has demanded that Washington recall the embassy staff members implicated in this alleged episode.

NEED CONGRESS ACTION TO TAKE OVER 100 SHIPS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Congress may be asked to give the government power to requisition approximately 100 foreign vessels tied up in American ports since outbreak of the European war in order to loan them to the British, it was learned today.

Administration officials reported that congressional action would be necessary after they explored all existing laws, and found out that the ships could not be "seized" without consent of their owners.

Tied up in American ports are 27 Italian, two German, 37 Danish, 12 Latvian and Estonian and 28 French ships, the last group including the 50,000 ton luxury liner Normandie.

It was pointed out in official Washington circles that the ships could be purchased by the United States and added to the merchant fleet, or loaned directly to England.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Until warmer weather returns, the "super" in Pennsylvania's super highway must be placed in moth balls.

That in effect was the view held today by turnpike officials who, taking notice of increasing accidents on the Harrisburg to Pittsburgh express road, termed the superhighway "just another road when it's covered with ice and snow."

Search which developed on November 18, when her unoccupied auto was found along the Shenango river, near the Harbor bridge, was ended on Friday evening when the body of a woman taken from the Beaver river at New Brighton was identified as Mrs. J. W. Reimold, aged 38 years, of 27 Smithfield street, this city.

Criswell and James Steiner, local officers, accompanied by relatives of Mrs. Reimold, went to New Brighton, where identification of the body was made.

An examination revealed that Mrs.

Libya, Dec. 21.—Advancing steadily despite Italian resistance, mechanized British shock troops closed in today on the blazing Libyan coastal base of Bardia, which is now completely encircled by land and sea.

At the same time, British field headquarters received reports that the Italians have abandoned all Fascist airdromes in the Egyptian-Libyan frontier zone.

Fierce Fires Burning

Pierce fires licked the skies above Bardia as a result of the incessant artillery, naval and aerial hammering to which the Italian base has been subjected.

It was estimated that between 20,000 and 30,000 Italian troops are trapped in Bardia, where they were fighting against British tanks and armored cars.

These British mechanized monsters captured new defenses in the 15-mile arc of defenses shielding the town and seaport.

ROME, Dec. 21.—Germany has sent approximately 45,000 troops as well as Stuka dive bombers and Junkers transport planes to aid Italy's forces in Albania, according to reliable indications in Rome today.

While the exact number of German troops representing the Reich's contribution to the campaign against Greece could not be ascertained, it was believed to consist of three divisions.

Italian authorities pointed out that the Rome-Berlin axis is operating on the principle that Albania, the Adriatic sea and the Atlantic ocean are merely different fronts in the same conflict. Thus, they said, Italy and the Reich are carrying out the fullest possible exchange of men and materials.

"It is not surprising," these sources declared, "for the Germans to reciprocate in Albania, in view of the several hundred Italian pilots and planes operating over the English channel."

ATHENS, Dec. 21.—Heavy fighting raged on the Albanian battle fronts today as the Greek forces consolidated newly won positions in preparation for further offensives.

After capturing new heights on the northern front beyond Pogradec, the Greeks today carried out local attacks on the central and southern sectors, thereby occupying more points of strategic importance north of Kilsura.

Along the entire front, according to Military dispatches to Athens, the Hellenic warriors were able to improve their positions.

Counter Attacks

Italian counter-attacks aimed at recapturing certain positions lost by the Fascists were repulsed with heavy losses, it was claimed.

Northwest of Kilsura, a major battle ended with a complete Greek victory and Hellenic occupation of important positions, authorities declared. Italian prisoners were taken and a considerable quantity of war equipment was seized.

January Draft Call In State Is Cut To 3,287

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Pennsylvania today was requisitioned for 3,287 men for induction into the armed forces. The drafted men were ordered to report for duty between January 11 and 31.

The January call was issued by Major General W. S. Grant, commanding the Third Army Corps at Baltimore. Previously, headquarters there had estimated that approximately 4,023 men would be needed.

The second allotment of men from Pennsylvania (the first took only a few hundred in November) will report to induction stations in Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg, Altoona and Pittsburgh.

To Determine Local Quotas

As soon as Gov. Arthur H. James was advised of the new call, State selective service headquarters began a breakdown on the new requisition to determine the exact number each of the 422 local draft boards will be called upon to produce. The individual calls to local boards, based upon the registration of each board, will go forward as soon as the breakdown is completed.

The first men in the January call will report to the Harrisburg induction station on the 11th. They will BERLIN, Dec. 21.—Killing nine persons and wounding 17 British bombers attacked Berlin and Potsdam during the night, it was announced officially today.

In Berlin, it was disclosed the imperial Cathedral opposite the castle of the former Kaiser was among the buildings damaged. Other historic sections of Potsdam were hit.

In addition to the cathedral in Berlin, a historic armory museum as well as the "old museum" adjacent to the cathedral also were slightly damaged.

Late moonlight aided the raiders, who dropped many incendiary bombs on the Lustgarten end of Berlin's most famous thoroughfare the Unterden Linden.

The planes flying at terrific altitudes, provoked heavy anti-aircraft fire, while Berlin residents took to their cellars.

Six persons were killed and 17 were injured in the capital, it was announced, while in Potsdam three persons were killed in what the German communiqué called a "senseless raid."

Private homes and the famous royal theatre were damaged at Potsdam.

The British planes carried out two attacks on Berlin. The first was a failure, the communiqué said, but the second resulted in what was termed "minor personal and some material damage."

LONDON, Dec. 21.—British warplanes pounded Berlin and German invasion ports from Holland to France during the night, while Nazi warplanes raked Liverpool and the adjacent Merseyside area in heavy night raids, it was officially announced today.

Leaving fire and explosions in their wake, the fresh British raids blasted an important airplane engine factory in the German capital and wrought fresh havoc in the industrial Ruhr.

After daylight bombers of the coastal command made numerous attacks on airdromes and harbors in enemy-occupied territory, the RAF's night shift plastered Antwerp, Le Havre, Flushing, Boulogne and the docks at Amsterdam with bombs.

Waves Of Bombers

In the Berlin attacks, new waves of bombers followed the first attack, "stimulating" fires already started, according to the air ministry's announcement.

Despite the scope of the raids, not a single British plane was lost, it was said.

President May Make Fireside Chat

New Four-Man Defense Board Is Created By President

'FIRESIDE CHAT' IS URGED ON ROOSEVELT

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—President Roosevelt may make a fireside chat during the Christmas holidays to put before the American people a full account of his stewardship of the national defense program and the drive to aid England, it was learned today.

Mr. Roosevelt, in the talk may explain his purpose in creating a new four-man defense board to be superimposed on the present national defense commission. He named William S. Knudsen as director of the board, and the other three members appointed to it were Sidney Hillman, a CIO leader, and Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox. Knudsen also is production chief of the existing defense commission.

Defense Board Created
With creation of the defense board, the president concentrated authority for administration of the defense program into one group, and, at the same time, put the reins of defense production in the hands of four men sympathetic to his program to build billions of dollars worth of ships, planes and war munitions to loan or lease to Great Britain.

Meanwhile, the president's close advisers urged him to make one of his famous fireside radio chats. They told the chief executive it was learned, that people were seriously disturbed that the defense production was lagging. It was also pointed out that the creation of the super board may cause new fears on the part of the public. So they pleaded with Mr. Roosevelt to make the radio talk, and he has about decided to do it.

ICE AND SNOW BRING NUMEROUS ACCIDENTS

is bound to cause mishaps since no highway is completely free of ice and snow at this time of the year," he said.

Make Travel Easier
Faller pointed out that the elimination of mountains, the maximum three per cent grades and the lengthening of curves have reduced accidents to a minimum and made winter travel easier.

"Our service on the turnpike is far superior to any other highway system," he said. "At all times we try to give the public a safe road. However, confronted with a four-lane, 160-mile highway, it is a difficult job to keep the right-of-way in shape. Our cinder crews are prepared at all times to cinder the entire stretch of the road if weather conditions make it necessary," he pointed out.

The secretary disclosed that the cinders used on the turnpike, unlike those used on state highways, are chemically treated with calcium chloride, which melts ice and snow. "We are faced with a difficult type of freezing condition along the right-of-way," Faller said. "A heavy mist, rolling down from the mountains during the night, will freeze and make morning travel risky. Our crews immediately cinder the treacherous sections and so far we have not received a complaint."

Faller explained that the section between the Allegheny and Laurel Hills tunnels, Somerset county, was probably the most dangerous on the turnpike. The altitude is between 1800 and 2400 feet and runs through the most mountainous section of the state.

"It is at this point that the worst road conditions prevail," he said, "but at that, we are still about 500 feet lower than the Lincoln highway, the principal state road leading to and from Pittsburgh."

"The turnpike was constructed through the mountains to offer motorists the safest mode of travel to Pittsburgh. In the main we have succeeded. Our ice and snow fighting equipment is the most modern. But the principal thing for motorists to remember is that ice and snow are not particular upon which road they fall."

"Exercise the same amount of caution on the turnpike as on other roads in the state," Faller emphasized.

moving in reinforcements to strike a final blow. Authorities at headquarters expected to capture Bardia shortly.

Nevertheless, the Italians opened fire with field guns and howitzers in an attempt to shell the northwestern Egyptian port of Sollum, a dozen miles to the east.

This long-range bombardment evidently was aimed at preventing British warships from landing supplies at Sollum. It was indicated, however, that the Italian fire failed to reach the Egyptian town.

Information to British authorities stated the Italians had evacuated all their airdromes east of El Aden, Libya, including the large aviation bases at Menastir and El Gubbi.

The El Aden airdrome, 70 miles west of Sollum, is now the nearest Fascist aviation base to the Egyptian frontier.

Repeated British air attacks which on Thursday night reached all the way to far-off Derna on the Libyan coast, were credited with forcing the Fascist evacuations.

Naval shelling of Italian positions also played an important role in the British advance.

Bardia was subjected to five days and nights of heavy bombardment by British warships, while masses of R. A. F. bombers swept low over the beleaguered town to add to the holocaust.

the mail out of the way," the postmaster declared, "and the public will be getting greeting cards earlier."

158,000 Pieces Friday
Friday saw postal cancellation records for the New Castle office shattered, when 158,000 pieces went through the postage-voiding machines. Postmaster Hanna compared that figure with the 143,000 of 1939's rush, and commented:

"We broke records yesterday, and yet the force handled the job with noticeable efficiency. Our new 'progressive chute' system worked wonders—we think it helped a lot."

The "progressive chute" enables the postal workers to keep mails moving with greater order and dispatch. It was set up in the main floor work room just before the rush started.

Forty-two extras, clerks and carriers and parcel post helpers were laboring with regulars today as the biggest Saturday throng in many a year visited the office. Sub-stations likewise shared the rush. Parcel post trucks will make one complete round of the eight wards of the city on Sunday, as well as the letter carriers.

through the mountains northwest of the coastal city of Chimarra.

At the same time it was reported—but not confirmed—that the Greeks now dominate the road leading from Tepeleni to the port of Valona, which is still in Italian hands, although Greek and British air attacks have blasted it until it is almost useless.

May Encircle Army
If this report is true, Greek military officials said, its importance scarcely can be over-estimated. Some experts expressed belief that with the Greeks in charge of this road the Italian army now retreating from Kilsura will be unable to avoid at least partial encirclement and capture.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that the Greek naval fleet, like the British, had entered the Adriatic sea—which the Italians like to call their "lake"—and had patrolled this body of water up to Valona. (Editor's note: Yesterday the British admiralty in London announced that British battleships had sailed into the Adriatic and hurled 100 tons of shells into Valona without encountering any Italian interference.)

The positions on the northern front were taken by the Greeks in a new offensive launched beyond Pogradee, according to authoritative Athens quarters.

BODY OF MISSING WOMAN IS FOUND

Reimold had sustained a fracture of the skull, and it is the belief of the officials that this was sustained in a leap into the water, or by something that the body may have struck during the time the water carried her body the 25 or more miles downstream.

Long Search Made
After Mrs. Reimold disappeared, a large number of searches kept up a vigil along the Shenango river near Harbor bridge for several days, but without success.

Mrs. Olivia Reimold was born in Transfer, Pa., on June 13, 1882, daughter of Daniel and Anna William Lesh. She was a member of the First Baptist church.

Surviving are her husband, James W., one son, K. Ward Reimold of New Castle; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lesh, Transfer, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Paul Deever of Cleveland, C. E. Lesh, Mrs. Grove McKnight, Mrs. Joseph Taylor, all of Transfer, and Paul Lesh of Warren, O.

Private funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Joseph B. Leyde mortuary, Highland at Winter. Interment will be made in a Transfer cemetery.

and late evening, by removing the trees to a better selling position, usually on the outside of the store, and again taking them into the store after closing hours.

One East Side merchant is drawing quite a bit of attention to his grocery store by the display in the front of his store of an old time sleigh, with real red plush seat covering, which is right in line with the season.

Home decorations about the vicinity for the Yuletide period are nearing completion. Various sections of the town and even the out-lying districts are displaying gayly lit exteriors and pine bedecked porches and windows.

There's no place like home to spend the Christmas holidays is a popular saying, but Pa New saw one car, loaded with a family with Wyoming license tags in the downtown section late Friday evening. That certainly is a distance to be away from home during the holidays.

Today is the shortest day of the year, and will the early risers be glad of it.

During the recent mild days a number of housewives had the urge for "spring cleaning," windows are being cleaned, and other outdoors work being done.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACHERS INFLUENCE HOME LIFE

You and I know some teachers who know their children not merely by name at school. They know these children every one of them, in a far wider sense. They know them in relation to their parents, brothers and sisters and playmates. These teachers know much about the emotional experiences of these children, their joys and sorrows, hopes and fears. They know how these children are treated and understood at home. Great and wonderful are such teachers. Money can't reward them for what they do.

We wish more teachers were like them. See how much greater influence for good they would have on their children and how much happier these children would be, and how much faster they would learn. Often before groups of teachers I discuss the matter and one winning closer home cooperation. Addressing elementary teachers on this subject at the Middle Tennessee Education Convention recently, I reminded them that we teachers need to strive to win home cooperation, that we need to be salesmen rather than officials. Accordingly we need to prove to parents that at school we are cultivating in the child good attitude and habits of conduct which will make him a better and more helpful member of his family at home.

Teachers Influence Home Life. More than we realize we teachers can induce the child at school to want to help his parents at home and want to do some of the hard work there. More than we realize we can motivate the child at home to be a good companion to his younger or older brother or sister and a better playmate in the neighborhood. Some great teachers inspire their children to do right at home or anywhere else away from school.

As I said to those teachers, we need to exercise humanity and the social grace in relation to parents. Then wherever we meet them, regardless of how they speak, regardless of how they are dressed, we shall make them feel at ease in our presence knowing that we honor and respect them as persons worthy of our respect. The more people I meet who are really worth while the more I am persuaded that the truly great person is the person who is so cultivated and refined that any of us feel comfortable in his or her presence. I can't imagine that any one ever felt ill at ease in the presence of Jesus when as the Master Teacher he walked among common folks like us here on this earth. His whole philosophy and life emphasized the sacredness of human personality.

Visit As a Friend. When we as teachers visit the home of a pupil we shall go as cultivated guests earning the gracious welcome of the parents. You and I know some teachers who visit in the home of every child of their class. They go as guests. They set the stage so they are invited and welcomed.

If we teachers and parents always exercised toward others the niceties of social grace how much more closely and effectively the school and home could work together. How much better and happier our children would be.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE DEFENSE OF AMERICA.

Down through the years since the guns of Lexington dictated the first paragraphs of the national saga, the defense of America has been the prime concern of those whose eyes have seen the promise of the future through the perils of the present. That defense met the menace of military might on the fields of Yorktown. It met the menace of false belief on the fields of Gettysburg.

There is something of both Gettysburg and Yorktown in the crisis of today. Certainly the defense of America has a military side. Both the men and materials of war must be prepared to meet any threat. Yet in a very real sense, America's way of life is in greater danger than its shores.

Staggering as are the assaults of diving Stukas and speeding Panzer tanks, they are but transient perils compared to the assaults of a dictator's way of life. Badly furnished and often neglected, the laws of right have yet been the laws of nations. The dictator's ideology repeats those laws, it twists them and tears them, it burns them and blasphemes them. It raises in their place the idols of state right and state might.

The American way of life must be defended from internal dangers as well. The banners of liberty, justice and equality are thin and fragile. Their threads are easily torn by the blustery winds of hysterical patriotism. The very hands that raise the standards high may tear them into shreds. By the most cynical of all paradoxes, the very struggle for liberty may end liberty for decades to come.

In the days of Valley Forge, the military defense of America seemed a hopeless mirage. To all but an Illinois lawyer steaming eastward on his inaugural train, the spiritual defense of America seemed a lost cause. We must, in these uncertain days of 1940, have the courage of a Washington and the spiritual strength of a Lincoln. We must man the outer walls and the inner ramparts. That is a demand which none but a great nation would dare to face. It is a demand which America must face if the defense of America is to become a reality.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:36. Sun rises tomorrow 7:21.

There are 47 insurance agencies in New Castle. How many do you know the names of and where they are located?

Some of the things going on, or not going on, in Washington, make the people of this country feel more nervous than the things going on in Europe. Politics seem to be more important than defense.

Recently a very conscientious salesman, after demonstrating the fine washing machine on display said: "Why, madam, this is the type of washing machine that pays for itself." "Fine," said the lady. "As soon as it has made its last payment send it to my house."

Christmas crowned with kindness. Comes to heart and home again; Calm life's feverish distress; Soothes the striving souls of men; Lets the loved ones of Care to behold Hope's happy dawn. Bringing laughter's dimples where Sadness long its lines had drawn.

Christmas gives to us once more Childhood's heyday of delight Old-time greetings to the door Old songs and convivial night Help to speed the hours away Help to make the moments sweet Of this memorable day.

Christmas and Kris Kringle Hall! With your wreaths of holy red—Cast Dull Care without the pale There to hide his shame-faced head. Dance with us about the tree Laden with the fruits of love May the day be filled with glee—Christmas, I am speaking of!

And then there are women who insist on cleaning their houses before Christmas whether they need it or not.

A Christmas tree looks good whether there is anything on it or not in a house.

In case there is any doubt about it, we are prepared to prove that it is exactly 100 miles from New Castle to a point 100 miles away from here.

When you pull one paper handkerchief from the box another automatically appears in its place. Now if only we had a pocketbook like that.

Red is a color liked by most people if it is not on a nose.

Rabbit meat is now being put up in cans. What will people think about this when they see it skinned? Meow!

When a stranger stops to ask us where to find temptation, we tell them we are also a stranger in town.

KEEPING THE SECRET. Sylvia and Cynthia found themselves seated next to each other at the Christmas dinner party, and immediately became confidential.

"Molly told me that you told her that secret I told you not to tell her," whispered Sylvia.

"Oh, isn't she a mean thing!" gasped Cynthia. "Why, I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me—so don't tell her I did."

"Age is from the neck down," says a philosopher who is probably well past middle age.

Christmas: This is the day of heart's desire. We are come to the end of a journey. Weeks of feverish anticipation of hustle and bustle of rushing about, have brought us into the calm reflection. In the language of the era, this is the payoff.

And then we get the Christmas card that doesn't even have a name on it.

PHILOSOPHY FOR HUSBANDS. So live. That when you bring A little Christmas present Home to the misus. She will not think You are trying To cover up a crime With it.

No matter what traffic signs are put up, lots of people pay no attention to them, not even parking meters. Traffic is a problem that will have to be enforced by policemen right where the stuff happens.

A State College professor says to teach the young to work early, he goes out on the farms of this country he will find the young not only working early, but also late. He evidently means the young in the cities.

"My older daughter regards an evening as wasted if she does not spend it in some night club or cafe with a man. As a result she has reached 30 without appealing to any substantial man; whereas her more serious and less out very much of her young executive. Please write something that will help me save my elder daughter from a life of disappointment."—Mother.

Answer: Your older daughter is evidently suffering from an escape complex. She has to keep going this way to shift her mental focus away from something. Perhaps it is a false sense of shame because her younger sister has beaten her to the altar. I know her type well.

During a dinner hour she is abstracted because she is hoping for the phone call that will invite her to go dancing again. If it comes, she relaxes until about nine, preens herself from nine to ten, when the latest playboy cavalier toots his horn for her to come tripping out to his car in her tooless golden sandals and clinging dance dress. She thinks that being seen in daylight after night in this night club and that will give her prestige in the social world she hopes to attain.

Call together such of her relatives and friends as have her interest at stake and arrange for her some out-of-town visits or parties where she can be introduced to solid worthwhile men of the caliber that will make her really prefer to stay at home with them several evenings each week.

Other Readers' Questions Answered. Questions: I have received an invitation to an "at home" bearing the names of two women. How must I, properly, reply to it?—Edith.

Answer: Address your envelope to the one at whose house the party will take place. If it is to take place at a club or a hotel acknowledgment should be made to each person whose name appears on the invitation. The acceptance should be written on the card of invitation with pleasure the kind invitation of Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Smith.

If only one person is known to you, it will be proper for you to address your envelope to her only.

Question: When phoning an order to a tradesman should I announce myself as "Mrs. Jones"? May I properly give my future sister-in-law a shover?—Answer: Yes, to the first question, no to the second. You should be included in showers given by her friends, but you should give none yourself.

Yes, America and England could control the seas, but Alas! every strong alliance invites outsiders to form an alliance against it.

Common people are the ones who could live safely if they didn't have to pay for the blunders of the great.

The owner of a private hospital hates to hear people say: "Take care of him and spare no expense." It means nobody will pay.

Mexico is getting soft. Barricaded Communists shoot down police and soldiers and then they are merely arrested when the cops get in.

If they can make gas tanks that won't leak despite dozens of bullets why can't they do the same thing for a ship?

There is nothing more universal commended than a fine day; the reason is, that people can commend it without envy.—Shenstone.

OF COURSE NOT. A woman has lots of time for meditation while ironing. Sometimes it is constructive, and other times it's plain screwy, like this:

Christmas spirit, Christmas cheer, Comes to us but once a year; Buying presents all so queer For mother, sis, and daddy, dear. Spending every cent to see If we can outdo last year's tree And so on through eternity. Is this the way to bankruptcy?—M. O. C.

Disgusted Republican Looks Ahead Reviews Mishaps Of Party In Past Feels Future Holds Small Chance

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—A lifelong Republican I know drifted into Washington the other day from his business headquarters in Pennsylvania. I can't name him, but he always has been importantly identified with political management in the interests of big money. Today he isn't looking at it with any too pleasant anticipations.

"What leadership," he inquired plaintively, "have the G. O. P. got, to develop its organization with a view to the next national election?" "Why," answering his own question, "it's last presidential nominee is titular head of the party—Wendell Willkie. Or, perhaps, in competition with him, is Charles Landon. Or, maybe, you might say, Herbert Hoover—especially considering that he's an actual ex-president."

"Now, how about Willkie? Heck! Not to mention the fact that he ran last November he was a Democrat until shortly before the Republican nominated him. He is yet, essentially—though not a New Dealer. It's a fine note, ain't it, to have a Democrat making Republican medicine for our years from now?"

"Well, Hoover? Heck, again! The first time he was nominated he already had been presidentially endorsed by the Democrats, at their primaries in Michigan. It was an endorsement he didn't repudiate, either. He didn't know whether he was a Democrat or a Republican. He'd voted offener in England (aliens can vote there in certain elections) than he had in this country. He's another choice specimen to classify as G. O. P. leader!"

"And Landon? Not only was he thumped like sixty when he was presidential candidate, but he was pro-Roosevelt the first time F. D. was up for the White House. Ain't that an elegant set-up to do our G. O. P. fixing for us up to 1944? Does it sound as if we'll be in very good shape when we get there?"

"How about Tom Dewey? I inquired. "Tom will try to get himself nominated and elected as governor of New York as a presidential stepping stone. But big business won't let him get the gubernatorial nomination even. When he fails to get it, that'll kill him presidentially."

"Why, I queried, "doesn't big business like Dewey?" "It isn't so much," said my friend, "that big business oughtn't to like him. It's afraid of him. (Continued On Page Five)

SANTA RETURNS. Well, the old fellow's back. With his red coat and pack. His reindeer and sleigh. And his magic so clever! Santa Claus still survives! In our hearts and our lives! Though time was we fancied He'd vanished forever!

The kindest of men Is back with us again. Though the years have been long Since a visit he paid us. Hang a wreath on the door! We have Santa once more. Living, laughing and real! And how happy that's made us!

Time was that we sighed Thinking Santa had died. But he lives, and our lives! The chimney adorning! He's been waiting—that's all—for the grandchildren small. And he's coming again! To our house Christmas morning!

Hints On Etiquette

In writing a card to inclose with presents or a gift to a friend, don't make the message too flowery or sentimental. Sign it with your given and last name, except in the case of a very intimate friend, when you may simply sign your first name.

The President's Plans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. THE President's plan for lending England arms and ammunition instead of insisting on cash for them when she no longer has the cash is an indirect method of extending the financial assistance which has been asked. It circumvents the two laws which stand in the way of direct and whole-hearted aid to the British and is exceedingly ingenious.

THOUGH the plan clearly is a subterfuge, it is genuinely helpful in several ways. First, it averts any danger of stoppage of the flow of material from here to England when the British are no longer able to pay; second, it raises our position to a higher level than that of a country anxious for its own safety to see its ally victorious but willing to help only for cash. The straight way, of course, would be to repeal the Johnson Act and the Neutrality Act, which stand in the way of "all possible aid short of war" and no longer represent the sentiment of the American people.

BUT Mr. Roosevelt's scheme, subtle as it is, is better than inaction, which threatened a shutting off of supplies when the British reached the bottom of the purse. Strict observance of these laws would have meant exactly that, which certainly would have been disastrous for the British and both dangerous and degrading for us. So the President's plan, while slightly devious and unorthodox, and not representing quite the sort of leadership which had been hoped for, probably will command support of Congress. It is to be hoped there will be no delay in working out the details.

IT will relieve anxiety about one phase of the British situation, but it should be noted that the new plan will not get war materials out of our factories with any more speed than now. And that is the big problem. The lack of speed in that constitutes the "terrible urgency" about which Mr. Knudsen spoke last week and which is so disturbing to everybody informed as to the facts about the defense program. To meet this, Mr. Roosevelt also has a plan. But his plan to provide financial assistance to the British, he does not adopt the obvious and direct method of reorganization.

HE does not, for example, clothe the existing defense commission with real authority and name a chairman with complete power. Instead, according to report, he proposes to create another overall defense council, composed of the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy and Mr. Knudsen, the defense advisory commission. This three-man council will be set above the present defense commission, which nevertheless is to be retained. Presumably the three-man council will have the necessary authority and presumably Mr. Knudsen or someone else will be chairman.

BUT he will not be the complete boss of the job. Apparently, Mr. Roosevelt cannot bring himself to the point of adopting the old war industries board plan, under which responsibility was fixed on one man and he was given the power and the means to do the job. From the beginning there has been strong pressure on the President to follow the Wilson formula. But its chief advocates have included most of his more conspicuous journalistic and political opponents, which fact always makes it more difficult to get Mr. Roosevelt to adopt any course, no matter how great its merit.

IT remains to be seen how the new three-man council works out. Perhaps it will function better than three-man boards usually do. Everything depends on the men. At any rate, it promises to improve the present situation, in which no one has real authority and there is no possibility of coordination. As yet there is no indication that the President is sympathetic with that part of Mr. Knudsen's recent speech—in which he expressed hope that the labor "blackout" from Friday to Monday night be abandoned, nor with Mr. Nelson's wish that labor might find it possible to work longer and harder on defense contracts. On the contrary, he appears as opposed to any relaxing of the rigidity of the New Deal labor legislation as ever. It is too bad, but perhaps he will modify his view on it. It is a fact that literally no one aside from the professional labor leaders believes that full production can be achieved without some yielding in this direction.

SANTA CLAUS, Ind., Dec. 21.—
This little hill town with the magical name today prepared to make its annual bid for national fame.Day after day the volume of Christmas mail grows larger, according to Postmaster Oscar L.
Phillips, who predicted a record business from mailers seeking to obtain the cheerful postmark of Santa Claus.The little postoffice, which only a few years ago was just a chicken wire enclosed coop at the rear of the town's general store, was enlarged this summer to three times its original space and a modern front was installed in the building.
At least a dozen rush postal employees will be on duty.Phillips believes that the prosperity wave in this country and the dispatching of cheering words to American soldiers and to Hitler's prisoners of war may increase the mailings here to nearly two million pieces this year.Ignores Possible Competition
"I don't think we will be disturbed
by the incorporation of North Pole, Minn., for Christmas mailing," Phillips commented. Curiously, one of the first pieces of mail received by Phillips this year was for a wide-awake resident of Deep Ely, Minn.This hamlet, tucked away in the hills of Spencer County, will celebrate the first Christmas with electricity. This year, the toy buildings have electric lights. Thousands of Christmas lights have been strung about the village, with each building in the toy town outlined in red, green, yellow and blue Yuletide lamps.Visitors will be welcome at night.
Heretofore, when darkness fell, the little town was left to its inhabi-

SEMPER FIDELIS CLUB YULE GIFT EXCHANGE

Most enjoyable was the Yuletide party of the Semper Fidelis club, which took place at the home of Mrs. E. H. Scarazzo, 5 West Laurel avenue, on Thursday evening, a special program featuring little Sylvia Joan Tranquillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Tranquillo. She sang a group of Christmas songs.

In brisco, Mrs. Carm Sacco was the winner, while in 500, Mary Bryan, won the prize. The latter with Stella Caritto and Sylvia Joan Tranquillo, were special guests. The club trophy fell to Mrs. Felix Thomas.

Lunch was served at a late hour, and marking each place, was a Christmas gift from the hostess.

Concluding the evening, Sylvia Joan in the role of Santa Claus, distributed holiday packages, marking the club's annual Christmas exchange. A special remembrance was presented their club president, Mrs. Carl R. Tranquillo, in behalf of the group.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Carm Sacco, Euclid avenue, on January 2.

Shower Is Held

A lovely personal shower party was held in honor of Mrs. Mae Guillard, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Dudenzi, of Lutton street, on a recent evening.

Informal diversions were enjoyed, and later a delicious lunch was served. Many lovely gifts were received by the honoree.

MRS. H. T. TRESSLER ENTERTAINS CLUB

Associates of the Bide-A-Wee Ladies were graciously received in the home of Mrs. H. T. Tressler on Beckford street, Friday evening for their Christmas party.

Hours were enjoyed in playing 500 with high score award going to Mary Loveridge.

Gifts were exchanged and the group was invited to the dining room where a delicious lunch was served around an attractively appointed table.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

EWES NEED GRAIN FEED WITH POOR ROUGHAGE

Many farmers of Lawrence County experience a rainy season at the time of harvesting their hay. This has resulted in poor roughage for the ewe flock for the coming winter.

Past experience has dictated to our better shepherds that with poor roughage it is wise to begin to feed a light grain mixture as soon as the ewes are brought into winter quarters. A popular grain mixture consists of 3 parts of oats, 2 parts of shelled corn, and 1 part of bran by weight. This mixture is fed at the rate of a half-pound daily.

It is especially important that ewes on poor roughage get the grain mixture. Where a good legume hay is available and corn silage is fed, it will not be necessary to feed grain until later in the winter period.

Our better shepherds realize that keeping these ewes in gaining condition after they are bred means a strong healthy lamb crop next spring as well as cutting losses in the ewe flock to a minimum.

BLACK WALNUT TREES PRODUCE TWO CROPS

Farmers who have plantings of the American (black) walnut trees have prospects of two crops, first the harvest of nuts and later the timber for saw logs.

The annual crop of walnuts goes mainly to bakeries, ice cream manufacturers, and candy stores. Good, reliable walnut mills are located in many parts of the Middle West, as far east as Ohio and West Virginia and south into Tennessee.

Mill owners like to have a description of the trees, the number, and the size before making an offer. The nearest mill often will pay the most because of lower transportation costs.

Walnut wood is going into the production of furniture, radios, pianos, and similar equipment. Several million walnut gun blanks were left over from the World War and are in excellent condition after more than 22 years in government storage. This large supply eliminates gunstocks as a possible market for walnut at present.

RYEGRASS COVER CROP GROWS IN POPULARITY

A survey shows that about a half-million pounds of domestic ryegrass seed, most of it grown in Washington and Oregon, was sold to Pennsylvania farmers in 1940. At 20 pounds an acre, this amount would sow about 25,000 acres.

The seed sold in Pennsylvania last year was just about five times as much as that handled in 1939. Previous to that year, ryegrass was almost unknown as a cover crop in the Northeast and was used almost solely in lawn and pasture mixtures.

Extension records show 168 cover crop demonstrations in the state this year. Thirty-two of these demonstrations are in Lawrence County. Nearly all of these were with ryegrass.

Information on cover crops was furnished by county agents to 1,437 farmers. In one farming county alone, a survey showed more than 33,000 pounds of ryegrass seed sold to 400 farmers, most of whom sowed it at the last cultivation of corn.

The attractive features of ryegrass are the low cost of the seed, the high percentage of good stands secured, the way the grass covers the ground and prevents winter washing, and the large fibrous root system which makes it turn over like a real sod when plowed.

When sowed along with legumes, such as crimson clover or sweet clover, ryegrass gives better ground cover and greatly reduces losses from the too common winter-killing of the legume.

Apparently, good farmers are realizing the value of this cover crop in controlling erosion and in adding organic matter to the soil. The widely increasing use of the crop is an illustration of how readily farmers adopt simple, inexpensive practices on their own initiative when they are informed.

PROTECT STRAWBERRIES WITH A WINTER MULCH

Now is the time of mulch the strawberry plants. The grower who faithfully cares for his plants all summer cannot afford to neglect this important operation.

A good mulch performs a number of functions. It prevents winter-killing, which may be severe when the plants have no snow cover during cold, windy weather. It prevents "heaving" by keeping the soil frozen. Mulch delays blossoming in the spring, and thus reduces the possibility of frost damage to flowers. It keeps the berries clean, conserves soil moisture, and tends to smother weeds.

A number of these advantages can be obtained with later application, but to realize full benefit in preventing winter-killing and heaving, the mulch should be applied at this season.

Pennsylvania growers use a variety of materials for mulching. Among these are wheat, barley, oat, rye and buckwheat straw. Even shredded corn fodder is better than nothing, but it is too coarse to be ideal.

Wheat straw is considered to be the best material since it is neither too coarse nor too fine. Barley, oat, and buckwheat straws are usually too fine, having a tendency to smother the plants by settling too close around them. Rye straw is rather coarse too.

Whatever material is used, it should be free of grain and weed seed, which would be troublesome in the patch next spring.

About five tons per acre of dry mulch or proportionately more damp or wet material will be required. This will make a covering several inches thick when applied.

If damp or wet straw is applied, less trouble will be encountered from having the material blow away before it has settled into place.

PRACTICAL GIFTS MAKE HIT WITH HOMEMAkers

What shall I give for Christmas? Many of us are asking this question as the time draws near even though all purchases should have been completed at this time.

To help solve this question, go to your pantry shelf, the fruit storage room, suggests Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. Your town and city friends and relatives will appreciate canned foods, jellies or relishes, a basket of fruit, or fresh eggs.

Another suggestion may be a useful article for the kitchen. This will spread Christmas throughout the year while some novelty selected in haste may become only another white elephant.

Some inexpensive articles that could be used daily are missing in the kitchen. Among these items are a measuring cup with a wooden handle, a wooden spoon, a spatula, and a paring knife with a good hard steel knife. Any of these will be a welcome gift for the homemaker.

If you know that the family's favorite dessert is pie, why not give a pastry blender, pastry cloth, or a rolling pin with a white cloth cover?

Perhaps your friend has an electric mixer and is always forgetting to buy a cover for it. Here is where you come in—buy one as a gift and surprise her. Oil silk bags for fruits and vegetables are another idea. Refrigerator bowls also are good and are seldom has too many.

These suggestions hold for father and the children when they plan gifts for mother. It is better to give a useful article and one which will make work easier although mothers always appreciate any gift they receive. Some families find it desirable to pool their gift money and buy one big thing such as a refrigerator, an electric sweeper, washer, electric mixer, or ironer. All members of the family will benefit from such an investment as well as saving time and energy for mother.

Whatever you give, consider the person before making purchases. The receiver of the gift will be grateful for your efforts to please her.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Will U. S. Senator James J. Davis run for governor of Pennsylvania in 1942? One of the reports from Washington, where the senior senator is now engaged in congressional activities, is that there is a strong possibility that he may. Davis would not have to resign as senator to make the race. In the event he was elected, he would then resign and name his successor.
Senator Davis is 67 years old. Re-elected in 1938, his present term does not expire until 1944. Davis served as U. S. secretary of labor under three presidents before he went to the senate. In his successful race for re-election two years ago he defeated the then Gov. George H. Earle.
The 1940 electoral college of Pennsylvania was in session for only two hours and 22 minutes, adjourning sine die at 2:22 p. m., not to reconvene again until 1944. The assemblage of 36 electors met at noon in the senate chamber on December 16. Only three Republicans were seen at the meeting, the governor, one of his secretaries and Miss Sophie M. R. O'Hara, secretary of the commonwealth. They were present in their official capacities.
Next spring's sessions of the joint anthracite negotiations board in New York will mark the 13th year of service for former Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America. Kennedy has served longer than any other miner or operator. The joint board will establish a new contract for the 100,000 anthracite workers in Pennsylvania's northeastern coal fields.

The Greek cry of "Tirana by Christmas" awakens memories for Val Oldshue, publicity director for the public utility commission, who accompanied an American Red Cross convoy to the Albanian capital 21 years ago. The convoy landed at Durazzo after crossing the Adriatic from Italy and trudged through miles of mud of Tirana, arriving on December 14, 1919. Christmas morning in Tirana that year was peaceful and colorful. Oldshue recalls. The streets were filled with Italian soldiers, American Red Cross workers, Christian and Mohammedan Albanians, the latter wearing turbans and black and white gowns reminiscent of the three wise men.

Roy E. Brownmiller, former secretary of highways who is serving a one-year jail sentence at the Dauphin County jail, stands a good chance of going free if doctors find trouble if my parents had told me things.

Annual Venison

Dinner At U. P.

Church On Friday

Address By Reid English Features Meeting; Robert

Weber Is Toastmaster

Second annual venison dinner sponsored by the men of the Second U. P. church, Friday evening, proved a hilarious success. Promptly at 6:30 o'clock, 75 men sat down to an ample supply of venison and all the trimmings, provided by the Nimrods of the church.

Just as the men were about to sit down to the table, they were startled by the sudden appearance of a large "five point buck," evidently seeking to escape from the cooks. His attempt at escape proved futile and he was brought down in a volley of shots fired by two amateur hunters. The final kill was made by the veteran, Merle Glitch, with his two edged dagger.

Robert Weber served as toastmaster. Invocation was pronounced by Rev. Robert Meade Patterson of the Central Presbyterian church. The unusual skill of the culinary department was then amply demonstrated by the delicious dinner. After a brief interim, the group reassembled for a few minutes of fun. Sheriff "Cy" Ingham posed beside the kill of the evening for a picture, and after appropriate remarks, the sheriff was presented with a special "riot gun." An Albino pheasant was then presented to the veteran, Roy Long. Highlight of the evening was an address by Reid English as he recounted his experiences as a "big game hunter in the Rockies." Mr. English was presented with a rare species of a "blue grouse." Others who made remarks were George Sillman, Scott Cox, Harry McCormick and Rev. Harry Ward of the Methodist church.

Holiday Business Good In New York

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Uptown, downtown, all around the town, department store cash registers are playing tinkling tunes they had almost forgotten how to play as Christmas shopping narrows down to a race between the calendar and tired arches.

Business is good and before Christmas Eve and the last mad rush, the merchants expect it to be better.

Christmas falling on Wednesday this year "is like having two extra shopping days," according to Sidney Reisman, an executive of Bloomingdale's, the farthest uptown of the big Manhattan stores.

As to what the customers are buying, Reisman says "everything." There are no leaders—luxury items and practical goods are moving in about equal volume. High prices and low priced items are all going into Santa's sack.

DeLoos Walker at Macy's in the mid-town area reports that average purchases are running higher than last year with particularly good business in home furnishings.

At Gimbels the story is that executives haven't had a chance to sit down and look at the books and really determine where they stand, but shopping crowds there and at Wanamaker's and Hearn's appear to be larger than in several years past.

Christmas in New York is subject to slight alterations this year. For one thing there are fewer Santa Claus on the streets and for another, the Christmas trees appear to have been imported from a pygmy forest.

Santa Claus got a slight setback two years ago when Mickey Mouse was the national hero of the ur-chins of America unincorporated and when Ferdinand the Bull moved into key position last year. Santa about gave up. He still sits on his throne in the stores but he isn't out ringing the bell on the street corners this year.

The dwarf Christmas tree situation probably results from the demand of New York's millions of apartment dwellers for small trees. They got them. Any tree over three feet high is considered a collector's item and priced accordingly this year.

During the month of October the receipts in the probation office were $4,336.08, according to a report made by the county controller, Frank W. Hill. In November the receipts amounted to $4,253.80. For October the expenditures amounted to $4,357.32 and for November $4,203.96.

The money paid in represents costs, support money for wives, children and parents. When a non-support case is finished and an order for payment made by the court, the man in the case pays the money to J. M. Dunlap, probation officers. He in turn pays the money over to the person for whom it is intended.

A report of the sheriff's office shows 1,036 prison days in October for which a charge of 24 cents per day is allowed. The total board bill for prisoners was $248.64. In November there were 1,172 prison days at a total cost of $281.28.

Political sub-divisions of the county that send prisoners to the county jail are billed for the board of the prisoners. In the year running from November 1939 to November 1940, the City of New Castle paid into the county treasury $578.50 for boarding prisoners.

Anticipating Christmas by a few days the county treasurer's office has received its Christmas wish, a winning bowling team. On Thursday night the lassies who count the money took the commissioners' office girls over for the second time in two weeks.

Register and Recorder Orville Potter has turned over a disputed will case for trial in the Court of Common Pleas. The case is that of the will of the late Samuel Cornelius. Sometime after his death a will was presented for probate by Regina Nunley. Later a son of the deceased, Harold Cornelius of Detroit, Mich., came in and contended that the will was prepared under duress and restraint and that his father was of unsound mind at the time.

A jury trial has been requested and the case will be decided by the jury.

Dr. Daffoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A short time ago we discussed Vitamin C with particular reference to a lack of it causing scurvy. There is a great deal more to be said for it.

Oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit and pineapples all have it in substantial quantities; so have cabbage, tomatoes and potatoes, eaten with their skins on. This vitamin has one characteristic which we should always remember—it is easily driven off by cooking. Hence the need of eating some of the foods containing it raw or simply steamed.

There is another thing to remember about Vitamin C also. It is that in order to get the vitamin in orange juice the juice must be freshly pressed. Many people today find the morning pretty crowded, what with rising, eating and catching the bus downtown for the office. Mothers may also have children to get ready for school, so to save time they begin squeezing the fruit juice at night, and let it stand in the refrigerator until morning.

This is a time saver, but it's not so good as far as Vitamin C is concerned. It is a very volatile vitamin, and when it sits all night in an open glass a lot of the precious substance is lost.

These details are important, because, as I pointed out in a previous column, your body doesn't store vitamin C. It doesn't lay up a store of it for the day when your diet may not contain any. That means our bodies must get a fresh supply of it every day.

In recent years some scientists have come forward with the claim that Vitamin C prevents decay of the teeth. I don't know whether this has been adequately proven, but whether it has, the vitamin is certainly a necessary part of the complete diet and as such it plays its role in keeping the teeth strong and healthy.

Mothers do well to keep in mind that although milk is a marvelous food, just about the best there is, in fact, that it doesn't contain much Vitamin C. When milk is boiled pasteurized, as it most certainly should be for children, most of the Vitamin C is destroyed. So you must provide some other source of this very important element of food in the diet, and we have found that fruit juice or tomato juice does the trick.

The quintuplets were early started on fruit juice. July 9, 1934, was their first dose and they've had it daily ever since. We tried them on tomato juice in the early months, but it didn't agree very well with them. Now, however, they get tomato juice as a change from orange and grapefruit.

For a normal baby, a teaspoonful of orange or grape fruit juice twice daily is the way to start. If you are giving tomato juice, then this amount should be doubled.

The tomato juice can be obtained, either by pressing the juice out of ripe uncooked tomatoes, or by straining the juice off a can of tomatoes. The beauty of the latter method is that in poor homes, the baby can get the juice, which is what he needs, and the rest of the family get the solid part. There is no waste.

Paid $26,000,000 Weekly In Wages During November

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Pennsylvania factories paid out approximately $26,000,000 a week in wages in November, the highest wage level reached in the state in 10 years except for April, 1937, the federal reserve bank reported today.

Factory employment increased one per cent from October to November to nearly 990,000 workers and wage disbursements reached their November record mark by making only a slight advance.

Compared with November, 1939, last month showed more than a three per cent gain in employment and better than an eight per cent gain in payrolls, the bank added. Hourly average earnings in Pennsylvania factories increased fractionally to a new high of 73 cents, the report showed.

Delaware factory employment dropped five per cent in November from October's mark, while payrolls decline three per cent.

The News Friday

Mrs. Kieth McAfee, of East street, certainly believes that it pays to advertise. At least her intentions of advertising in the columns of The News were the best, but she got results before she could get her ad in the paper.

Thursday night the McAfee's little cocker spaniel, a gift to their children, disappeared and when it did not come back, she decided to place an ad in the paper. In the meantime, Miss Dorothy Blim, of Park avenue, found the little fellow wandering around on the street downtown, during her lunch hour on Thursday, and feeling that someone might want it for a pet, brought it to the conductor of the Meeseall column, in the hopes of finding a good home for the pet.

It was only a few minutes afterwards that Mrs. McAfee came in to advertise for her dog, and was told that the dog which had been brought in by Miss Blim was probably hers. A joyous reunion quickly took place.

K. Of C. Prepared To Be Santa Claus To Catholic Groups

All Is In Readiness For Children's Party At K. Of C. Home, Sunday Afternoon

Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Catholic children of the Roman Catholic parishes, will be entertained at a gala Christmas party, to be held in the K. of C. Home, North Jefferson street, with members of the Knights of Columbus in the role of Santa Claus.

Events will begin for the youngsters at 2 o'clock, beginning with an elaborate Christmas program, to be presented in front of the K. of C. Home. Appropriate selections will be given by the individual groups. Good things to eat, and a visit with Santa Claus will be their reward later in the afternoon, when they will be guided by a chairman, to the third floor of the Home. William Carlin, Sr., will be Santa Claus on this occasion.

A large crowd is expected, and according to the chairman, Sergeant Owen E. Tighe, all plans have been completed to accommodate the little guests. A list of committees will assist Sergeant Tighe, at the party, which is expected to be a success.

War Department Overrides Protest

Will Sign Contract With Ford Company Despite Commissioner Hillman

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The War Department has decided to override the recent heated objections of Defense Commissioner Sidney Hillman and sign a $4,000,000 contract with the Ford Motor Company for the manufacture of "pigmy trucks," authoritative army sources disclosed today.

In doing so, the department will set down a far reaching policy in regard to the defense program—that government procurement agents are interested solely in obtaining material and not in passing judgment on any other issues.

Hillman demanded that the contract be rescinded, charging that the Ford Company had not lived up to labor regulations and therefore should not be permitted to enjoy government contracts.

In overruling him, defense officials in effect held that whether the company had violated any labor laws was a question for the department of justice or labor or the courts to decide.

In the meantime, according to their theory, they will continue to place contract where they will be handled most expeditiously.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Indians used to "bite the dust," but this was not habit-forming. Many children eat dirt of one kind or another at a certain age. This is not a common habit, but there is nothing wrong with it. Children usually grow out of such notions quite normally.

Habits of children cannot be "broken" as horses are "broken." More often than not the child's spirit will be broken.

Children's habits are unconscious, natural expressions.

Removing the opportunities for indulgence is better training.

Chewing paint off toys or bedposts is not exactly a habit.

It may be related to teething or other temporary disorder.

Divert the child's attention into other channels.

This requires patience—not punishment.

But sometimes the outraged lady accuses him of trying to flirt when he is innocent and abominates her type, anyway.

RAGS IN PAPER MAKING

During the early 1830s, rags for paper making were so scarce that they frequently brought as high as 20 cents a pound. Peddlers, traveling in red wagons, called on householders and traded Bibles, testaments and other books for the good-wife's rag supply.

Flowers Make It Really Merry

To the joy of the season, the excitement of Christmas morning, the thrill of opening packages, and the presence of loved ones about you, there is one more touch needed to complete the picture, flowers. Cut flowers or blooming plants, either of them have a definite part in the Christmas story. Flowers are a part of Christmas.

They speak the language of love. They are appropriate at any season of the year but at no season more so than the Christmas season. Let us be your floral Santa Claus. A blooming plant for that friend, some roses for Mother or Wife. They will be delivered fresh and appealing at the time you tell us. May we offer a few suggestions?

New Castle High Meets Defeat At Youngstown 31-21

South High Tossers Hand New Castle High Setback Friday Night

DAVENPORT STARS FOR YOUNGSTOWN

Before a large crowd in the magnificent new Field House gym at South High Youngstown last night, New Castle High basketball team dropped its third straight game of fast South High quintet.

Davenport of the South High team, was the thorn in the side of New Castle, caging seven field goals and a foul for 15 of the points. The big floor seemed to bother the locals somewhat. Lee and Christopher paced the New Castle attack with six points apiece.

Close First Period
Play was fairly close the first period, which ended 10 to 8 in favor of the Ohio quintet. Ross, Lee, and Christopher had a hand in the local tallying with Goodall the big scorer for South with three field goals.

The South High team staged a scoring spree the second period to get 11 more points and to give New Castle but five, making the count at half time 21 to 13. Davenport started dropping them in getting seven points in the second stanza. Lee and Cooper had field goals for New Castle.

Field Goals Scarce
Field goals were scarce in the third period. New Castle getting but one and South two, making the count 31 to 21 at the end of the third period. Ross had the lone local tally and Davenport did the Youngstown scoring.

Play was even the fourth and final period, each team getting six more points to make the final 31 to 21. Lee, Subkowsky and Christopher each made a field goal for New Castle. Zabel, Davenport and Heckman had the South High points.

In foul tossing New Castle made 3 out of 9. South made 1 out of 5.

Gersons To Play Franklin Quintet

The Gerson basketball team will play the fast Chicago Pneumatic Tooi quintet of Franklin, Pa., at the Arena floor on Sunday. The Fannin will play a fast team in the preliminary at 2 o'clock.

The Franklin team is made up of former Franklin High and college stars. Out of 200 games the past few years the Franklinites have won 143 and lost 56. They have been the city and Venango County champions the past four years. They will come here in an effort to upset the local jewellers.

A win will boost the Gerson basketball record, quite a bit. The Gersons will have John "Rags" Gennock, late of New Castle High, in the lineup.

On Sunday, January 5, the Gersons will play the famous girl "Red-Head" All-Americans.

Conn And Louis Bout Arranged

Articles Signed Friday For Heavyweight Title Fight Next June

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—After quibbling all day yesterday, Promoter Mike Jacobs and Manager Johnny Ray have reached an agreement and were to sign this afternoon for Billy Conn to meet Joe Louis for the world heavyweight championship in June.

They agreed yesterday on 40 per cent for Louis and 20 per cent for the light-heavyweight champion for the June match, but signing of articles was delayed by a disagreement over percentages for a return match in the event Conn should win.

Louis' handlers agreed to 30 per cent for each fighter, but Ray demanded the customary champion's end of 37 1/2 per cent. The matter has been closed, with Jacobs agreeing to pay Conn 35 per cent. Louis' percentage under this arrangement was not revealed.

Falcons To Open Season On Sunday

The Polish Falcons, city-county champions in 1939-40 will open their season on Sunday at the Falcon Hall by meeting the strong New Brighton G.O.P. five, formerly the Beaver Falls St. Mary's team.

In the preliminary at 2 o'clock the Falcon Reserves will play a well known team as yet unselected.

The Falcons will appear tomorrow in their bright new uniforms, it was announced today by Eugene "Gabby" Kendra, business manager of the team. Henry Koszela is again coaching the "Falcons."

The Falcon starting five will contain the following: at the forwards Sniezek and either Eddie Koszela or Kendra, at center will be Walt Kwolek, and at the guards will be Adams and Morrison. The New Brighton lineup will have the following—Tommy Hurley, former Geneva star, Jack Sterling, the big 6 foot 5 inch center, John Meyer, Lib DiCicco, Jack Tack, Dad Mason and Chuck Zuk.

The game will be handled by Bud Hanlon.

Turk Edwards and Ernie Pinckert have been with the Washington Redskins team since its organization eight years ago in Boston.

Localities who have watched Lester "Bus" Reiber in action claim that the blond cager star is right at home on Duquesne's starting club. Some even believe the ex-New Castle flash will wind up with one of the starting roles before the season ends. Tom Carey and Jimmy Dart, well known New Castle athletes, have both won starting berths on Slippery Rock's flipping machine.

If Paul Brown vacates his post at Massillon, and many scholastic coaches, no doubt, hope he does, the shift will give rival grid tutors an opportunity to return some of those shellackings the terrible Tigers metted out during Brown's tenure. Replacing a strategist like Brown will be a problem that will take quite a while to solve. The change would also solve Massillon's annual problem of scheduling games.

Joe DiMaggio, baseball's terrific slugger, muffed clubbing a homer in every park during the 1940 campaign. Cleveland's stadium and Washington's Griffith stadium stopped the jolting coast slugger. His pet orchard was his home grounds. Yankee stadium, where he poled 17 of his 31 base cleaners. In five major league campaigns, the erstwhile fish peddler boasts of 168 four plyers.

In the National, 1940 was strictly a pitchers' year. No member of the circuit succeeded in collecting 200 hits. Frank McCormick of Cincy came the closest with his 191 swats. In the opposing loop, Rip Radcliff, Barney McCosky and Doc Cramer made the grade. Bob Johnson, the A's hard hitting bad man, managed to drive in exactly 100 runs. Johnson's big drawback is that the bags are usually empty when he steps to the platter.

First Baptists Set New Record

Run Up 86 Points To Defeat Methodists, H. Adams Has 31 Points For Winners

St. Vitus church basketball team piled up 87 points to defeat the Epworth team in the first Class AA church league game at the "Y" last night, and thought that they held the scoring record for the church league this year, but the First Baptist team and H. Adams took the floor for the second game and the St. Vitus record went by the board, with the Baptists recording 86 points to upset the First Methodist team.

The St. Vitus win over Epworth was 67 to 41, with Joe Cooper having a field night to ring in 11 field goals and two fouls. Other scoring stars were: Rags Gennock and Bullano for the Saints and O'Brien for the Epworths.

The First Baptist team won 86 to 17. Besides H. Adams, the other high Baptist scorers were: Fraser and Francis Adams. Jarrett was best for the losers.

In the third and final game an upset occurred when the First Presbyterians trimmed the Second U.P. team 33 to 30, with Tommy McCormick and McGary the scoring stars for their respective teams. It was the first defeat for the Second U.P. team in the league to date.

Jenkins Holds Zivic To Draw In 10 Rounds

Zivic Best At Close Quarters And Jenkins At Long Range

Zivic Best At Close Quarters And Jenkins At Long Range

BOUT FILLED WITH 'ROUGH-HOUSE' ACTS

(International News Service Editor)
NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Old Bag of Bones, otherwise Lew Jenkins, remains the best lightweight in the world today according to New York boxing commission standards and, in addition, is no worse than an even match for the unanimously recognized No. 1 welterweight, the same being Fritz Zivic. More emaciated looking than ever with his belt seemingly drawn so tight over his ribs that they might pop loose any minute, Jenkins came into his own for the same time being last night in a draw with the rough and rugged welter title-holder.

They went 10, foul-filled, rough, bruising rounds in a non-title belting bee, and still were so even at the finish that the officials couldn't split them apart, with the result that betting odds were knocked slightly askew along with Jenkins' eyebrows and Zivic's generalship.

The latter was a favorite at 9 to 5 and 2 to 1 going into the ring and at times made Jenkins look a little silly. However, the scrappy Texan punched by fits and starts and as long as he stayed out in the open gave Zivic a good going over. It was in close where he could rough it up, that Zivic all but chopped Jenkins' head off by holding and hitting, doing a little sneak punching and using other tactics that he learned long before Jenkins ever laced on a glove.

At 142 1/2 pounds, Zivic held a fairly important weight advantage over the 135 1/2-pound lightweight champion and used it whenever he could.

Low Lacks Stamina
But for his notorious lack of stamina and acquisition of multiple pounds, Jenkins might have won. As it was, he made a comeback from his plodding toward the close to take the last round, despite blood which flowed over his eyes from cuts along his brows.

Berlin Cathedral Menaced By Bomb

GERMANS ANNOUNCE NINE PERSONS KILLED DURING BRITISH AIR RAID AT NIGHT

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Dec. 21.—The Imperial cathedral, whose roof was shattered by a bomb during last night's British aerial attack on Berlin, was menaced today by a time bomb that landed in an open square in front of the building in the center of the German capital.

The danger area was roped off and part of the cathedral and a nearby art museum were heavily covered by sandbags in an attempt to muffle the effects of any explosion.

Nine persons were killed and 17 wounded during last night's raid, in which both Berlin and Potsdam were attacked.

The cathedral was struck by one bomb. Photos published this afternoon showed that the east side of the roof had been shattered. The floor in front of the high altar was littered with debris.

German authorities stated one bomb exploded on the roof of the cathedral and that its valuable windows were broken.

Scores of chipped spots were visible on the front facade.

Similar damage also was visible on the front of the art and war museums facing the Lustgarten. The latter was topped off by the police to keep the curious away.

The German newspapers assailed the raid as an attack on "the populace, the museums, cathedral, and Potsdam's historic edifices." It was implied the German air force would retaliate swiftly.

Union Township Home Is Damaged

FIRE STARTING FROM FURNACE CAUSES LOSS AT NOON HOUR TODAY

City firemen were called to the home of E. R. Montgomery of McClelland avenue, R. F. D. No. 2, at 12 o'clock noon today, when fire was discovered over the furnace while the Montgomery family was eating dinner. A loss of around $100 was sustained.

The fire worked its way into the wall above the furnace, and firemen had a difficult time discovering the seat of the blaze but were able to extinguish it before much damage had resulted.

By a peculiar coincidence, Mrs. Montgomery stated that her daughter, Alice, had dreamed during the night that their house would catch fire in just the spot and manner that it did.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 21.—A police dragnet covered Pennsylvania and surrounding states today as state motor police extended their search for two bandits who kidnaped Max Kramer, 34, Exeter, in the Pittston business district yesterday and robbed him of a $3,000 payroll.

The pair fled in Kramer's 1936 Oldsmobile sedan bearing Pennsylvania license 1546 Kramer, head of a local manufacturing company, was released on a lonely mountain road at nearby Suscon after a wild ride. The bandits were masked at the time of the holdup.

Motor police commissioner Lynn G. Adams announced that the police had not apprehended the bandits but that a teletype alarm had been flashed over the eastern seaboard.

Department Store Sales Are Heavier

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Further bolstering reports of record-breaking holiday trade, the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank today reported increases of 2.6 per cent in department store sales in Philadelphia and 1.7 in department store sales in eight other leading Pennsylvania cities.

The advances were for the week-ended December 14, compared to the same period last year, the bank said. Six women's apparel stores in Philadelphia showed an even greater increase for the week, their sales jumping three per cent over those of a year ago.

Withdraw Three From American Paris Embassy

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today acknowledged that two officers and one woman employee of the American embassy at Paris are being withdrawn at the request of Germany.

The three are Cecil M. P. Cross, first secretary; Leigh W. Hunt, second secretary; and Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, receptionist clerk who was detained by the Germans for several days recently on the charge of abetting the escape of British prisoners.

Secretary Hull explained that any government has the right, without setting forth any ground, to request the withdrawal of another government's representatives from its territory.

The German charge, in this case, was that the two secretaries and Mrs. Deegan had assisted British officers to escape from occupied France.

Hull said that he is making no confession insofar as this charge is concerned, but admitted that it would be investigated. He added that he was under the impression that nothing will be developed to prove any guilt by the three Americans.

Doerr Is Top Second Sacker

HARLAND CLIFT LEADS A. L. THIRD SACKERS; BOUDREAU STEADIEST AT SHORTSTOP

(International News Service)
Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox was tops among American league second sackers with a .977 mark which was two points better than the Yanks' Joe Gordon and five better than Detroit's Charley Gehringer during 1940.

Harland Clift of the Browns moved to the top among third basemen with .959. The Yanks' Red Rolfe slipped a little but tied the major league mark by accepting nine chances in a single game. Don McNair of the White Sox tied a record with reverse English when he booted four in one game.

Leahy Boudreau, Cleveland's young sensation, displaced New York's Frank Crosetti, as the steadiest shortstop in the league, fielding .968 to Crosetti's .954.

But Minneapolis won seven times in second spot and eight in third give it the best record on a point basis.

CRONIN GRABS ACE BACKSTOP

(International News Service)
NEW YORK—When Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox acquired Catcher Frank Pytlak from the Cleveland Indians, he probably knew what the official American league fielding averages disclosed; namely, that the little backstop is the steadiest of them all behind the plate.

From Sept. 10, 1938, to Sept. 18, 1940, Pytlak handled 571 chances without an error for a new major league record. He had no errors in 1939 and only one error this past season to lead the field with a .996 percentage.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEELL

Here it is, the Saturday before Christmas . . . and it so happens that it is the 21st of December . . . that means a lot to some people . . . as this is the first day of Winter and the shortest day of the year . . . some folks have birthdays today while others like ourselves celebrate a wedding anniversary . . . so by putting all the celebrations together . . . we have a day to remember . . . and tonight the Townsmen will hold their Christmas Dance at the Field Club. They are expecting a large crowd . . . so let's dance boys and girls, let's dance.

A large crowd has been down since early this morning . . . finishing up those popular gift lists . . . and another large crowd will be down tonight . . . It's fun they all agree but terribly tiring . . . and the clerks will really appreciate the rest that is due them tomorrow.

Once there was a guard rail along the hollow at the point where Wilmington avenue and North Jefferson street met . . . but that was long ago . . . last week when a truck went over the bank at this point the necessity of such a fence was brought to light . . . residents along Wilmington avenue have had this talk going many times but nothing was ever done . . . maybe this would make a good project for after Christmas. (The hollow going into snakes rest.)

Want to buy a little girl just ten months old . . . from the looks of things her pappy will have a better time than anyone. Now that she is able to operate a kiddie car with the greatest of skill we don't think it would be too wrong to get her a sled or a hobby horse . . . Christmas is sure a wonderful time . . . for parents.

We have more demands for dogs than we have answers . . . if you want to give a dog away . . . just send in a description with your name, phone number and address . . . there is always someone who wants a dog but cash is not on hand.

Why not attend a Church Service tomorrow . . . it's Christmas time.

Laval Brings About Crisis

Seeks To Force Petain To Reinstall Him To Former Position

(International News Service)
VICHY, Dec. 21.—A grave political crisis developed today as the result of a sensational move by former Vice Premier Pierre Laval to force Marshal Henri Philippe Petain to reinstate him as the legal heir to the post of chief of state of the French nation.

Laval made the move in Paris, where he fled after the German ambassador, Otto Abetz, had secured his release from detention here following his dismissal as vice premier.

Laval sought to have Marshal Petain rescind the order abolishing Article 4 of the new French constitution. This article provided that Laval should automatically succeed Petain as chief of state if the aged marshal should relinquish that post for any reason.

Marshal Petain abolished the article when he dismissed Laval as vice premier last week.

Whether the German government was supporting Laval's move could not be definitely ascertained here.

There were definite indications, however, that Berlin was supporting, possibly as a compromise move, a scheme to compel Marshal Petain to remove all those elements from his cabinet who are reluctant to agree to France throwing in her lot with the axis powers.

Strong pressure for adoption of this scheme was being made from Paris, but whether the pressure was coming from Abetz or Laval could not be ascertained.

The gravity with which it was viewed by the Vichy government indicated that it was being supported by Berlin.

Deny Value Of Naval Documents Reported Stolen

Papers Taken With Brief Case Not Of Military Or Naval Secrets Value

(International News Service)
CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 21.—New York Shipbuilding Corp. officials today denied reports that valuable military or naval secrets had been stolen when a brief case and gladsome travelling bag were taken from a company representative near Schenectady, N. Y., last Thursday night.

Russell Keefe, who reported loss of the articles to Schenectady police, is the 41-year-old "expediter" of the New York ship's production department, declared Fred Cornell, plant publicity man.

Papers in the brief case contained a list of materials to be supplied the Camden firm by the General Electric Company of Schenectady, and contract and schedule numbers of the items, Cornell said.

"There were no blueprints, plans or anything of dimensional nature. This is obviously just a sneak thief instead of the theft of important structural information."

The New York Shipbuilding Corp., one of the largest plants of its kind along the Delaware river, has more than a half a billion dollars worth of navy contracts.

Production Man

Now under construction at the yard are the battleship South Dakota, 10 cruisers and two seaplane tenders.

Emphasizing that Keefe is "a production man and not an engineer", Cornell said the former had gone to Schenectady to confer with General Electric officials over the production and movement of materials into the New York ship plant.

Thursday night, Keefe accepted the offer of a Mr. Boyle of the G. E. company of an automobile drive to

Plan Two Special Services Sunday

Two special services are planned for Sunday at the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, although neither will be extra long.

In the morning, Miss Elizabeth Louise Myers, who is a student at Juillard School of Music, in New York City, will sing. Miss Myers' brother is Rev. John E. Myers, Jr.

In the evening, Mr. Myers has planned a special Christmas carol program. He will speak on, "The Story of Our Christmas Carols". As the story of each carol is told, the choir will sing it.

Mail Delivery Planned Sunday

In order to take care of the volume of mail that has been arriving at the Mahoningtown post office, all day today a special delivery has been scheduled for Sunday, according to Edwin McBride, superintendent.

McBride could not say definitely when the delivery will be made, but it will come sometime Sunday in the Mahoningtown area.

DISPLAY ATTRACTIVE

An electrical Christmas display at the home of Jess Gehrken, Mt. Jackson road, is quite attractive. Mr. Gehrken just recently completed grading and landscaping his property, and the colored lights placed among the evergreens presented a pleasing sight at night.

REPAIR GUARD RAIL

A crew of workmen were busy on Friday afternoon, making repairs to the new guard rail along the Mt. Jackson road, where it connects to the bridge at the foot of the big hill.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

John Emery, Harlansburg road, is making his home for the winter at his son's residence, Norman Emery, Mt. Jackson.

Albany, Cornell said. In a full report to his superiors here, Keefe disclosed that he and Boyle left Schenectady, but stopped just outside the city for sandwiches and coffee at Hixson's Riverwood Inn.

They were in the Inn but a few minutes. Keefe told authorities here, and came out to find the brief case and travelling bag missing from Boyle's car. At Keefe's request, the Inn proprietor called Schenectady police who summoned a state trooper to investigate.

Keefe had been headed for Albany to catch a train for New York and Philadelphia, but has remained in Schenectady since the theft, it was said.

Junior Class Hi-Y Has Christmas Party

The Junior Class Hi-Y club of senior high school last night enjoyed its Christmas party at Sylvan Heights clubhouse.

Girl friends of the members were special guests. A jitterbug contest was won by Don Patton and his charming partner, Miss Young, club advisor, was present.

The committee in charge included George McKinney, Max Windish, Bob Allshouse and Bob McConnell. The club will pack its Christmas baskets Monday night.

Geoffrey Chaucer, who lived from 1328 to 1400, was the first poet laureate of England.

IRELAND PROBING PLANE BOMBINGS

Two Eire Towns Bombed By Unidentified Planes, Two Reported Killed

(International News Service)
DUBLIN, Dec. 21.—Eire authorities today investigated the bombing by "unidentified" planes of two Eire towns with two resultant casualties and some property damage.

A government announcement said the bombs fell in the east coast port of Dunlaoghaire (Kingstown) and the inland community of Carrickmacross in Monaghan county. The two raids occurred half an hour apart. In each town one person was injured.

The bombing were the first incidents of their kind since bombs were dropped on Eire some months ago. That incident was followed by an Eire protest and a formal German apology, which said Nazi airmen had lost their bearings.

In Berlin the official German New Agency DNB said: "British news service allegations that the German Luftwaffe bombed Dublin and Belfast are not true. Germany and Eire are not at war. British propaganda merely aims to create mistrust."

NIGHT ATTACKS ON LONDON ARE RESUMED

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 21.—Germany's air force resumed its night attacks on London at an early hour this evening.

The air raid alarm sounded shortly after 6 p. m.

We are told that Roosevelt will veto any bill that authorizes the courts to review Labor Board decisions. This means we now have two final or supreme courts.

MORE CONTAGIOUS DISEASES REPORTED

According to the reports made to the county division of the State Health Department, contagious diseases are on the increase in Lawrence county, an epidemic of chickenpox being noted in the Ellwood City-Slippery Rock township area, where 20 cases were reported during the past week. Of these 14 were in Ellwood City, and six in Slippery Rock township.

In New Castle, there were five cases of measles, four of chickenpox, and three of scarlet fever reported during the week, the total of all diseases for the county being: chickenpox, 27; whooping cough, 1; measles, 8; and scarlet fever, 3.

Our greatest danger is the folly of big shots. Only yesterday Beaverbrook was saying that America needn't hope to sell England any of its fourth rate planes.
